Administration Invokes Changes

GOTTA GET A MESSAGE TO YOU. Barbara Mayhew delivers an important memo to assistant principal for attendance, Cal Webster

With student interests in mind, the Fitzgerald administration has been hard at work. In an effort to meet the needs of the students, the administration introduced many changes.

One of the most significant of these changes was a revision in the curriculum of almost every academic department. In place of the required year-long courses, students were given an option to choose from an assortment of semester-long classes.

Last summer, the administration, in response to traffic problems in the student parking lot, put in new speed bumps. When the problems of theft and vandalism persisted, a security guard was hired for the student's protection.

Still more significant changes were scheduled for next year. Among these were moves for the student lounge and counselors' offices, the student lounge to a location closer to the cafeteria and the counselors' offices to the student lounge. It was hoped that these moves would provide a more comfortable atmosphere for everyone.

Counselors Help Develop New Courses

LOOK AT IT THIS WAY Girl suggests appointment. Terry Butler sees schedule changes. Schedules are made to best fit the students' wishes.

Often there are little problems that must be corrected. This is where the counselors' real work comes in.

I WISH I MAY, I WISH I MIGHT Joy Holman sits in contemplation of a new student's problem.

"Can I drop this class and take study hall?" This question has echoed in the minds of all the counselors many a time.

Indeed, being the mediator between students and faculty is no easy task. They have the vexing problem of figuring out schedules for some 1800 students. Seniors turn to their counselors for guidance in selecting colleges and vocational goals.

Between appointments and personal work, the counselors, in cooperation with the teachers, managed to develop new courses for next year's curriculum. New science courses, a cosmetology class, and an all new eleventh grade English program await the returning students.

English Plans Course Changes

English, the world's foremost language, has its roots seeded deep at Fitzgerald. This year a variety of courses was available to students who were tired of English classes full of everyday grammar exercises. The "twenty-weekers," an assembly of semester courses dealing with other aspects of English, was developed to solve that problem.

Student demand for variety brought about such classes as plays, short stories, the novel, poetry and non-fiction.

Next year, the eleventh grade English program is scheduled for a complete overhaul. Doing away with conventional 302 and 303 classes, eighteen twenty-week courses in realism, romanticism, science fiction, and other topics are to take their place.

The administration and school board still have to OK them, but it looks good.

Social Studies Offers New Courses

Expanding to meet the needs of Fitzgerald students, the 1972-73 social studies department vastly broadened its curriculum. The former one-year history courses were broken down into one-semester pilot programs.

Among these new programs were such courses as The Blue and the Grey, 20th Century American Wars, Consumer Economics, and Greece and Rome. These classes focused onto the individual areas to meet the varying interest of the inquisitive student.

The overall response from the student body was very good in general. Students were not forced into taking full-term history courses. The new plan allowed students to select courses.

Undoubtedly, the success of this program is attributed to the Social Studies department's hard work and the cooperation of the administration. Together, these two brought about the large change that was made in the Department.

Students Communicate With Computers

COMPARING RESULTS. Ken Boone consults with fellow students on the results the computer has given Computers have been involved in everyone's life in one way or another. Computers have even invaded the schools and more specifically Fitzgerald's math department. The math department's newest computer course has proven to be the most worthwhile and most popular with the high school students. Piloting was a program which integrated the computer terminal and Algebra I. The students set up their math problems and fed the information into these computers. Within seconds, the computers relayed the correct answer back.

The math courses were designed with the student's future in mind. These courses were then adapted to fit the student's ability and interest. Numbers, fractions, segments, congruences, etc. are only a few objectives involved in the study of mathematics at Fitzgerald.

Careful analysis showed that students were motivated more by the computer's aided construction than by student-teacher relationships.

Students Probe Into World of Science

This year more students have developed an interest in scientific studies than over previous years. Additional facilities in the classes have enabled more students to experiment in the field of science and develop a curiosity about the world around them.

Science courses tried to bring students face to face with the wonderful world of the scientist. The science department attempted to explain the world we live in. Almost everyday the students participated through the mass media in some new development in a major area of science. Science is a part of Fitzgerald to teach the student new and better things

Biology teaches the students the different parts of the bodies of animals and plants. This helps give one an understanding as to how each functions in the world. Earth science teaches the student about the weather and the soil, while chemistry provides both laboratory and classroom instruction for students.

Language Courses Add Foreign Flair

TAKING IT EASY. Joe Waligore takes a breather during his foreign language class while going over one of many drills.

With the dawn of the 1972-73 school year, a new and valuable addition was made to the foreign language department. Mrs. Cynthia Payne who taught Spanish I, French II, and Conversing in Foreign Languages this year joined the Fitzgerald faculty as a result of the loss of Mrs. Pat Carrick.

The French department, too, got a boost in the teaching arm. An exchange teacher from France, Muriel Deville, came to Fitzgerald in the beginning of November and stayed until the end of March. Muriel team-taught French I and French II with Mrs. Belisario in addition to a French IV class she handled alone. Muriel also answered questions about France.

Indeed, the year turned out to be an active one for the Spanish and French departments.

Girls Cook Up New Courses

Proving to be even more successful than expected, the new home economics courses created a diversified curriculum for both males and females and a renewed interest in domestic learning. Students as well as teachers benefited from the new and exciting subjects encompassed by these courses.

The classes ranged from foreign foods, where a complete recipe of a foreign dish was prepared to classes dealing with marriage, child care, and interior decorating. Enthusiasm and willingness to work were noticeably improved over the old courses. Whether working alone or cooperatively the students merely learned by actually doing, rather than studying. As a result, home economics was a program everyone enjoyed.

Students Prepared for World Outside

Dealing with the most fundamental needs of Fitzgerald students with learning deficiencies, the special education department strove to prepare students to adapt successfully to the world outside.

The many people involved in the program worked together with the young adults, using the newest teaching techniques available. The course offerings in special education were similar to ones offered in the regular school curriculum. As a result, classes in typing, retailing, and other various secretarial skills proved to be rewarding and also very beneficial to many of these students. Since preparing for a career is a most important factor in life, the special education department concentrated on practical skills and actual work experience on giving its students a solid background.

With the acquisition of more rooms, the department was better equipped to involve its students in a variety of different areas.

All in all, the department has become an integral part of Fitzgerald's curriculum that cannot be overlooked.

Vocals, Instrumentals Brighten Year

Music is not achieved by mere wishing and hoping, it is an art which must be developed through hard work and long practices. Because balance and harmony are so important to music, combining them to perfection requires a certain amount of skill and talent. Whether it be vocal or instrumental, perfecting music entails perseverance not only from the musicians but also from the director.

This year, the choir, under the fine leadership of director Lindsay Barr, was given the opportunity to sing with some distinguished members of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. During the concert, Mr. Barr gave a fine performance as baritone.

Instrumental director Robert Rudy and his band provided the solemn, unearthly music that was needed for The Medium, an opera. The band, failing to reach a musical perfection in the last few years, showed an unbelievable improvement with their performances and reminded us of the band of yesteryear.

Art Students Display Creativity

Once again this year the art department has proven to be an asset to those students enrolled in its courses. Classes offered by the department provide an outlet for student expression in developing of imagination and personality.

A variety of new classes, especially in the drawing and painting area, were new to the department's curriculum this year. The crafts classes, — ceramics, jewelry, and sculpture — brought out the creativity of both students and teachers.

Things aren't developing quite as well in the photography classes. Students and teachers are handicapped by a need for better and more supplies with which to work. A total of six different photography classes, each with approximately twenty-five students, must share three cameras. Despite the lack of cameras, Fitzgerald's photographers created varied and numerous art forms for which they won graphic awards in the spring.

Pupils Get Down To Business

Relevant. The majority of Fitzgerald students being more and more concerned with learning only relevant material, became increasingly aware of developing skills they could put to use in the outside world

The business education department adapted itself to this student movement. With courses ranging from business law to computer concepts, it was designed to prepare office-oriented students with marketable skills and qualified instruction for careers in business and industry. The co-op program continued in stride, providing students with an opportunity to earn as they learned

A new class was added to the curriculum to supplement the co-op program. It gave non-co-ops experience in a simulated office classroom environment. The class, office education lab, was organized and taught by Miss Arlene Roman. It proved to be very popular with the student body

All in all, the newest, most modern facilities coupled with experienced and resourceful instructors provided an atmosphere in which job potential grew for Fitzgerald graduates

Industrial Students Prepare for Future

Future carpenters, die casters, electricians, metal workers, printers, draftsmen, and auto mechanics can get all the training that they need from Fitzgerald's industrial education courses to compete in the outside world.

Students enrolled in any of these courses are literally the future builders of America. They will hammer, saw, and drill the raw materials of today to create the ever-demanding world of tomorrow.

Fitzgerald offers one of the most comprehensive industrial education curriculums in the area. Boasting eleven instructors and four rooms filled to the brim with power tools, Fitzgerald prepares its industrial student in every aspect of vocational education. The range of equipment is most extensive. The industrial students turn out projects such as eighteenth-century cabinets, muter gauges, telephone amplifiers, and photograph and prepare the student newspaper for press.

Electronics and auto shop are two of the newest additions to the industrial education curriculum. Started only a few years ago, they already have follow-up courses (II's) and plenty of interested students.

Top-notch instructors and rooms full of equipment provide a bright future for industrial education students.

Physical Education Recruits Sound Bodies

Again, the aim of the physical education department was to help students develop and maintain a high standard of physical fitness while at the same time teaching them the benefits of teamwork and sportsmanship. Using an interesting and varied program, the department offered a welcomed change of pace from the academic atmosphere.

Activities were scheduled seasonally. In the early fall and spring students were often outdoors playing golf, field hockey, baseball or running. As the weather got colder, indoor activities such as gymnastics, swimming, and exercise programs took place. Boys and girls gym alternately used the gym and swimming pool.

For a change, both classes got together for co-ed gym, and had use of gymnastics equipment, floor mats, basketballs, and badminton equipment.

Also, new variety was added to the department with the recruiting of a new teacher to girls' physical education. Mrs. Fudge enlivened students' classes.

Council Struggles for Support

Though much of the student interest had dwindled, the student council still retained its authority in many school matters. Since representing the student body was their main function, the council concentrated on the problems brought to their attention by concerned students. A more effective parking lot procedure, a revised homecoming program, and a possibility of an open campus were a few of the proposals undertaken by the council.

Because of the lack of student support, the council's seventy one members did not accomplish all that they had hoped to. The active members though, were interested in representing the student body

The Prosecution had an open-and-shut case. The defendants were accused of the unforgivable crimes of service, scholarship, leadership, and character. They were sentenced to a full-day's labor and one year probation.

The scene was not the Michigan Supreme Court. It was the Fitzgerald Auditorium. The event was not a school scandal but an honorary program aimed at recognizing outstanding juniors and seniors by inducting them into the National Honor Society. Dropping the usual long, boring soliloquies of previous years' assemblies, NHS created a mock courtroom drama with skits designed to illustrate the qualities crystallized in NHS.

Breaking precedent, NHS week took place in November instead of March to permit the newly-inducted members an opportunity to become involved. Even the Sparty sale, an NHS tradition, gave way to a more profitable bagel sale. The ingenuity and foresight shown by the members paid off with success.

Band Experiences Year of Change

For the Fitzgerald symphony and marching band, 1972 was a year of innovations. Under the direction of Mr. Robert Rudy, the band took part in activities unprecedented in Fitzgerald band history

In early October, the band participated in Eastern Michigan University's homecoming parade. Attending the dedication of the new Warren Water-Treatment Plant, where Vice-President Agnew was the guest of honor, was another first for the 1972 bandmen

An award for the most outstanding bandmen was presented to a deserving senior in the spring

Regardless of the changes, the band continued to follow its traditional pattern of performing exceptional concerts. Among those staged were a Christmas concert, a winter concert, and a spring concert. In March, the band attended the district band festival

Indeed, 1972 was a year of change amid tradition, but also a year of fun and spirit as in the past

Choral Talents Provide Musical Diversity

Lack of student interest did not discourage the Fitzgerald choral groups as they continued to perform excellent concerts and operas under the direction of Lindsay Barr.

Concert Choir opened their busy schedule with Gian Carlo Menotti's opera, The Medium. This was a most intricate production, not usually performed by high school students. Six months of rehearsal proved worthwhile, and The Medium was an overwhelming success.

A candle sale brought in enough money to hire members of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra to accompany the concert choir in Mozart's Missa Brevis in F and Schubert's Mass in G.

In their annual Easter assembly, concert choir performed a collection of Black-American spirituals. The songs ranged from Rock-a-My Soul to Sweet Georgia Brown.

In the spring, the choir gave its annual concert and a second opera, Gilbert and Sullivan's H.M.S. Pinafore.

The Yearbook staff worked diligently this year to present the effect, nostalgia, effectively throughout the entire book. Many hectic hours both in and after school, were spent in planning and coordinating this theme. For the first time in the annual's history, the student body was invited to actively participate by posing for candid shots depicting the various decades of the twentieth century. The student body, as well as the yearbook staff, enjoyed the time spent after school in taking these period shots.

Co-editors Debby Laney and Valerie Koury had a difficult time trying to teach the young staff members the complicated basics of laying out spreads, ordering pictures, and writing captions and headlines, thus making it difficult for deadline to be met. After learning the basics, however, the young staff was able to produce the layouts on time. The words "Deadlines must be met" remained in the memories of all staff members as the yearbook was pieced together at last. The predominately senior staff left a challenge for future yearbook members.

Newspaper Shines Despite Changes In Leadership

With Rick Lane as editor, the Student Fitz-Herald was off to a great start: September 30 the first issue was out, the quickest beginning edition in Fitzgerald's history. Then came catastrophe. Rick Lane and his co-editor, Liz Szymankiewicz, both resigned, leaving the newspaper without a manager of any kind.

The newspaper however, soon bounced back as Ed Madaj took over the responsibilities of editorship. Madaj brought many changes to the newspaper. New and longer feature articles were added. The newspaper broadened its view a bit when articles from UPI and other newspapers were added.

Human interest articles, involving deeper thought of the staff, became more and more common to prevent stale news. The sports section was expanded to include state and nationwide sports news in addition to the school-affiliated sports. Perhaps the most significant change for the Student Fitz-Herald was in its rate of publication. For the first time, the paper was put out monthly.

Students Help Out; Library Modernized

Hard-working study hall students willing to give up free studying hours have proved themselves useful as valuable assistants while working in the library, typing for teachers, running errands for the office, and performing many important tasks.

New equipment and carpeting were added to the Fitzgerald library this year. Its new look proved to be both functional for independent study and group projects and relaxing for students with free time to spend.

Some of the new equipment included microfilm machines, cassette players, and study carrels.

Many students have taken full advantage of the library's new materials. Numbers of those using the library has greatly increased over last year.

Future Secretaries Enjoy Variety

For getting right in the business field, the Future Secretaries Association is a wonderful club. Upon entering the world outside, a girl needs a helping hand in ideas and thoughts about business life. Fitzgerald's Future Secretaries Association provides this and much more. During monthly meetings guest speakers such as secretaries from the National Secretaries Association, a Womens' Army Corps officer, and a spare time crafts-woman, came and spoke of their professions.

The girls had a Christmas party for a group of deaf children, who, in turn, entertained the girls by playing songs with bells. During the Thanksgiving holiday, the FSA girls went to a convalescent home and brought gifts which the girls had made. The girls made Valentine candy and a lucrative sale.

The girls also had many social activities. They went to the Fisher Theater to see The Sound of Music, toured Macomb Community College, and presented a fashion show. These are only some of the exciting activities enjoyed by FSA members.

Apathy Dissipates Future Homemakers

In former years, the Future Homemakers Association provided Fitzgerald students with an opportunity to express and refine their creativity and skill in the home economics field. Unfortunately, though, disinterest and nonparticipation diminished the club's membership this year to a low level. As a result, Future Homemakers was dissolved in October of 1972.

A few dedicated members managed to participate in some activities: a caramel-apple-making project and preparation for the Bridal Fashion show.

However, the former sponsor, Miss Silanpaa, detected a faint glimmer of hope that Future Homemakers may be revived by teaming up with Future Teachers, thereby allowing these aspirants to fulfill their goals.

Pep Club Advances Despite Losses

FINISHING TOUCHES. Freshmen Mary Jo Bonacorci and Dawn Leitz give each other a smile as they complete their banner

Large numbers in attendance is not as essential to a successful club as is a small hard-working group. The 1973 pep club proved this true when their soaring attendance rate slowed to a mere handful of workers. But with cooperation and enthusiasm the club came through to support the athletic teams with the customary bright banners and colorful locker posters. The hardest-working girls were rewarded for their efforts with a free ticket to the seasonal sports banquets.

A new method of raising funds for the club was sought by its participants. Suggested ideas were key chains with the traditional spartan emblem and T-shirts.

The annual Sadie Hawkins dance, sponsored annually by the pep club, was held in February. Pep club members were responsible for the decorations and the theme of the affair. Candles in wine bottles were employed with this year's theme, Days of Wine and Roses, to create a dreamy, romantic atmosphere for the young couples. Girls also worked at the doors taking tickets and inside the dance serving punch and cookies.

Spartan Broadcasting Sounds Off

Keeping the student body informed on school happenings was the main function of the Spartan Broadcasting Guild. Every school day, music and school news were absorbed by the students. For most of the students, this was a time to relax and take in any important school happenings that might pertain to them. This year, for the first time in Fitzgerald history, music was played throughout the full five minutes of class change. The new change proved to be well-liked among the students, and will hopefully be continued.

This year, too, the old public address unit was replaced. The new unit proved less complex and easier for the students to operate.

Out of the eighty competing students, twenty were chosen for the guild. Though all students were welcome to audition, mainly girls showed up. Sponsor John Backstrom hopes for more male students in the future.

Outdoorsmen Visit New Sites

HE FLIES THROUGH THE AIR. . . Trying his hand at some trapeze flying, Chris Wade hangs from a vine near the Huron River campgrounds

In its fifth year of existence, the Fitzgerald outdoor life association, once again, was the guest of many state and private campgrounds throughout the Lower-Huron Metro area.

The organization was forced to make a number of cuts to continue with their scheduled activities. The club's fund-raising activities for the 1972-73 school year were a Christmas decoration sale with moderate success, and a ticket selling contest with a good amount of profit made.

The club's most significant move in recent years was the affiliation with the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, an organization devoted to the preservation of Michigan's wilderness.

One of the organization's primary goals this camping season, was to visit as many Lower-Huron Metro parks as possible. They managed camp-outs at new places such as Proud Lake, Ortonville, and Kensington.

Bare Slopes Melt Ski Club

Because mother nature failed to create a cold and snowy winter, the ski season was hampered again by the warm and skiless Michigan weather. Ski club '73 traveled only six times to Pine Knob.

Members began the season with enthusiasm and interest. With their spirit, they eagerly set out to raise enough money for their traveling expenses and weekend trip. The fun-raising activities consisted of the annual paper drive, dance and the ever so popular bagel sale. Together these three events brought in over $280.00. But money wasn't what they needed. The lack of snow caused a lack of interest in skiers for both the weekly and weekend trips.

The season was not a total loss though, for in early February mother nature came through for two excellent ski trips and made a few heartbroken skiers smile.

Mermaids Break Even on Maiden Voyage

After a long wait, Fitzgerald's girls finally received their own swim team. The girls' performances and local interest convinced athletic director Dick Snyder that the establishment of this sport was beneficial.

Coach Beverly Rogers and the Spartanettes overcame first year difficulties by posting a five-won, five-lost record. When Snyder gave Miss Rogers the go-ahead, she hastily assembled a squad. Despite the rush job, the mermaids came through in commendable fashion.

The girls began strong with a 78-44 win over Madison, and dunked Clawson 66-57. They then lost to Kimball, 75-48 and to Lakeview 66-56, but bounced back drenching Hazel Park, 92-34. The Spartanettes then tumbled into a three-meet losing streak. After regrouping, the girls topped the century mark in meets, demolishing Tower, 100-22, and Lincoln, 103-20.

Miss Roger's girls were led by senior Della McCormick and most valuable swimmer Lorie Austin; each tailed a 110 points.

The Spanish club held their annual Christmas party in which the members broke pinatas they had made themselves. A welcome addition came to the club in January, Luis Mello from Brazil. Innovating a new idea this year, the Spanish club put on a program consisting of a play and a few games for the elementary children, they also went to the Spanish restaurant El Sol.

Debate Loses Coach; Demoralizes Team

Although the debate team took second place last year, they only got the position of second from the last this year, that's sixth position. The reasons for this are: they were left without a coach when Mr. Bates quit just one week before the season opened, and second is that most of the better players had graduated last year and not even a few good players were in the group that tried out for this year's team.

Debate is mainly a highly formalized way of arguing. They debate about one subject to the different teams in the other schools in this district.

The topic that they debated about this year was — ALL PUBLIC SCHOOLS SHOULD BE FUNDED BY THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT. The teams mainly tell their side of the argument, either the affirmative or the negative, depending on whether they are on that team or not.

This year's teams proved worthwhile despite the poor record.

Chess Improves, Increases Mind

The chess club has proven to be helpful in building the ability and the use of the mind. The club lets members learn how to control and use their minds effectively. It teaches them to use brainpower that they, usually, don't know they have. It also helps members develop their ability to remember and use what they remember.

This year the chess club had a few good games but none good enough to get any recognition or noticeable honor toward any prizes. The members have increased their games throughout the season, so have most members of other teams.

This team was not as good as former teams mainly because not many people are interested in playing chess. It is usually thought that only math experts can play good chess games.

Although the chess team did not have a high attendance rate, members enjoyed playing the game.

Apathy Short-Circuits Electronics Club

Once a prestigious organization boasting a healthy membership of seventeen members, the electronics club dwindled into nothingness during the school year.

Sponsor Norman West explained that lack of interest literally crippled the club. "There weren't enough members who actively participated and the president, Walter Krajewski, was forced to perform functions of all executive positions except treasurer."

With the year's progression, the organization gradually tailspinned. Apathy was so great, the annual fund raising Easter candy sale was cancelled. Therefore, no new equipment was purchased. This same disinterest destroyed plans for a school broadcasting station. It seemed as if with each attempt to arouse student participation the results grew progressively worse. Fitzgerald, apparently, wasn't interested in circuits and transistors in 1973.

It is discovered however, renewed interest in the electronics club, there is a possibility of regrouping for the 1973-1974 school year. At any length, unless something is done, Fitzgerald is in danger of losing one of its longest-standing fraternities.

Cheerleaders Find Camp Helpful

What makes a good cheerleader? Obviously becoming a cheerleader involves a great deal of enthusiasm and spirit. But even more important are the long hours and the physical endurance the girls devote to their cheerleading. Once again, the Fitzgerald cheerleaders combined their talents to develop the 1972-1973 squads. Despite wind, rain, and biting cold, they faithfully lead the spectators with spirited cheers and chants.

This year the cheerleaders had a big job on their hands. The crowds were mostly apathetic, and this left them with only themselves.

Cheerleading camps were of great help to the girls in polishing their skills to perfection. The jayvee squad went to a camp session held at Western Michigan University while the varsity attended A.C.A. camp at Albion College. Both of these squads returned from camp with witty sidelines and basic group cheers that helped them in many ways for the challenging season ahead.

Gridders Finish Just Under .500

WFOF. Quarterback Val Ulinski (10) hands off to fullback Chuck Marquis (13) for badly needed yardage in Fitzgerald's 14-0 win over Lincoln

Fitzgerald's varsity football team had its work cut out right from the beginning, losing its first game to Hazel Park, 26-8. This initial game has usually meant a good season for the winner and usually a break-even season for the loser. That's exactly what happened to the gridgers after their encounter with the Vikings. The Spartans finished with four wins and five losses

Even though the team had a so-so record, there were some bright spots for the season. After losing the first two games, the Spartans refused to die, beating Lincoln with an offense that rolled up 370 yards, 330 on the ground. Then the Spartans had their finest moment of the year beating Center Line 15 to 8. This was the first time since seventh grade that these Spartans had beaten the Panthers. After that victory the team went from bad to worse, losing to an undefeated Cousino team, 25-0. The Spartans then lost their next two games to Warren and Mott. Still the gridgers refused to give up, shutting out Sterling Heights, 6-0, and dumping Madison, 22-16, in the season finale

The Spartans ended up in a three-way tie for fourth along with Lincoln and Warren. All-conference selections for the Spartans were Dennis Gajos, Ron Masch, and Bual Williamson. Recognition was also given to Dave Sierpien, Dave Bonacorsi, and Mike Lerma for honorable mention

Junior Varsity, Frosh Gridders Total Ten

Fitzgerald's freshman football squad finished the 1972 season with five wins, against three losses. The frosh gridgers opened their season with a 48-0 shut-out victory over South Lake. They then lost a close contest to Hazel Park Webb, 12-14. After that setback, the winning came easy to the Spartans as they trampled Warren Woods Tower, 20-8, East Detroit, 26-22, and Grosse Pointe South, 34-6. Wolcott and Warren Woods stopped the Spartans winning streak, by scores of 6-12, and 14-16. These losses fired up the Spartans into finishing the season with a 28-6 victory over Warren Lincoln.

The reserves turned out the school's best football record with five wins, two losses, and one tie. In the annual opener against Hazel Park, the Spartans trampled the Vikings, 51-6, then shut-out Warren Woods, 19-0, only to be dumped by Lincoln and Cousino, 30-22, and 28-8, respectively. The Junior Varsity then tied Warren, 12-12, and the series of defeats was over. The Spartans rebounded to trample Mott, 32-12, Sterling Heights, 22-14, and Madison, 36-0.

LEADING THE WAY Guards Al Zielinski, 52, and Ken Gales, 50, crack through the Lincoln line, allowing fullback Duane Brown, 75, to

Cross Country Has Mediocre Season

Quality was the word for this year's cross country team. The season started out slowly. Due to a lack of athletic funds, the future of cross country looked dismal for the runners. But once they got going, they moved.

Three of the Spartan runners qualified for the all-conference team: George Cerutti, Craig Lornicz, and Mike Wroblewski. During the regular season, George Cerutti also found time to set a new cross country 3-mile run record of 16:10.5 sec. For the first time in Fitzgerald's history two runners were sent to the state meet. George Cerutti and Mike Wroblewski qualified for the state meet, finishing 47 and 58 respectively.

As a team, the striders finished their dual meet season with a 2-4 record. After clinching the conference meet, they finished their season tied for 2nd place in over-all standings. The Spartan runners also took a 4th in the Regional - their best ever.

Mike Wroblewski, a 4 year veteran of the cross country team, was named Most Valuable Runner and Outstanding Senior Runner. Brian Riess and Andy Laur were selected co-captains for the 1973-74 cross country team.

DECISIONS, DECISIONS. Mr. Campbell ponders over the Spartan's score, deciding who will run in the next race.

Cagers Take Co-championship

At the start of the 72-73 campaign, no one expected much from Fitzgerald's varsity basketball squad

But as the season progressed many a mind was changed, probably even Coach Dick Snyder's. Sporting a handful of seniors, whose number dwindled as the year advanced, and three superb sophomores, the cagers bound together for a 11-3 league record and the Warren Conference co-championship

One of the smallest Fitzgerald squads in memory, the Spartans relied heavily on team play. Snyder as always demanded a great deal from his players and got it. The gritty bunch manhandled the majority of their opponents

Only Clawson and the Cousino Patriots marred the Spartans' record. Clawson bumped Fitz off in a close one, 70-68. Cousino not only toppled the cagers twice during the regular season - 82-62 and 60-58 but eliminated Fitzgerald in the regionals first round 61-57

As for individual standouts, senior guard Harold Hays stole the show. Besides being the team's and league's most valuable player, Hays earned spots on the Detroit News All Metro East and the Royal Oak Tribune All-Area second team squads

Also contributing to the team effort were all league center Mike Constanti and sophomores Matt Hays and Bill Masch

JV Cagers, Coach Endure So-So Season

With first-year problems confronting him, coach Jack Doss guided the reserve cagers to a 5-7 won-lost mark. As the team consistently tallied in the half-century neighborhood, scoring was no problem.

Overall team defense could be blamed for the losing season. The losing difference was often a matter of five to ten points, in fact, six games were between one and three points.

Leading the Spartans were captain John Martin, Bob Gintner, and Duane Brzozowski, whom Doss felt was the squad's most consistent player.

Martin led the team with forty-two assists and was second in scoring to sophomore Bob Gintner who paced Doss's men with 261 points.

On the boards, Brzozowski and 6'7" Glenn DeSimone hauled down a total of 269 rebounds. Brzozowski pulled in 150 while DeSimone 119.

Making the change from junior to senior high basketball presented difficulties for coach Frank Van Poppelen's freshmen. Posting a 6-14 won-lost record, the frosh still turned out some fine individual athletes in Jeff Fulton, Brett Pienkosz, Roger Jablonski, and Tom Drath. Fulton and Pienkosz led in scoring with 233 and 166 points respectively. Fulton also led in rebounding with Jablonski close behind.

There has been much speculation about the poor seasons for freshmen basketball teams. One theory is that the best players on these teams are moved up a notch to strengthen the next team. Whether or not this theory is valid, Fitzgerald produces excellent basketball players.

Wrestlers Achieve League Recognition

Overall, the wrestling season was fruitful. The team ended up with a 13-5 won-lost record. Outstanding wrestlers were David Bonacorsi, who took a first in the Oakland and league tournaments and a third in the State regionals, Dennis Gajos, who took a second at Oakland, first at the league tournaments, and a second at the State regionals, Bual Williamson, who took a second at Oakland, a third at the league tournaments, and a third at the State regionals, and Dave Robertson, who proved himself to be one of the better wrestlers on the team, compiling a 19-6 won-lost record.

The team voted David Bonacorsi and Dennis Gajos to share the "Most Valuable" award and Bual Williamson the "Most Improved" award.

Wrestling is a sport of cunning, agility, and stamina, qualities that each individual wrestler has. When the team won, it won with the sureness of a finely balanced piece of machinery. When it lost, it lost fighting.

Reserves Shine Despite Inexperience

Youth for the mighty matmen proved to be excellent. The young wrestlers posted a 6-3-1 record. Mr. Szulborski complimented Mike Odziana, Dave Hilger, Mark Roberts, and Jim Miller on a fine season. All four of these boys are freshmen, along with eight to nine of the twelve starters who were freshmen. Jim Miller led the matmen in points with a total of thirty-six points. Coach Szulborski feels these freshmen and sophomores will be a great asset to the varsity team next year.

The J.V. team was extremely young this year with few juniors or seniors. Mike Odziana had the fastest pin of twenty seconds, which also set a reserve record for the fastest pin beating John Siemianowski's former record of forty-nine seconds.

Swimmers Dunk Conference Teams.

This year's varsity swim team had a fantastic season, winning fourteen and losing only four. The tankers started slow, losing their first two meets, but after that the team caught fire and finished with a respectful third in the conference. One of the many highlights of the season was their victory over Warren Woods.

There were many outstanding individuals this year. Topping the list was Tim Quill, who broke the school's 100-yard butterfly, 400-yard free-style, and the 100-yard backstroke records. He was also the teams leading scorer with 178.25 points. Ed Binkowski, diver, was another record breaker.

For the first time in five years, Fitzgerald had qualifiers in the Detroit News all-star meet; they were Quill, Binkowski, and Makuch. Quill and Binkowski also qualified in the state meet.

Striders Flop; Individuals Still Shine

Inexperience and lack of depth hampered the 1971-72 track team. The thinclads won two and lost six for the season. They could have easily been the opposite, losing three meets in the last event. A lack of talent in the sprints, poor performances from heavily-counted-on seniors, and poor conditioning contributed to this mediocre season along with the fact that there were only three seniors on the team.

One bright spot was the Spartans, surprise third in the conference meet, beating three teams they had lost to during the regular season. Fitzgerald's thinclads showed their best efforts picking up thirty-four points.

Individually the Spartans fared well, breaking four school records, all by underclassmen. Craig Lorincz ran the half-mile in 2:01.3, Mike Wroblewski the mile in 4:33.5; George Cerutti the two-mile in 9:46.3, and the relay team of John Dmochowsky, Keith Smith, Tim Donley, and Mark Wilson ran the 440 in 45.6. Other outstanding achievements were handed in by Jim Turner in the high jump, John Dmochowsky in the low hurdles, Mark Wilson in the high hurdles, Al Allard in the mile, and Mickey Griffin in the pole vault.

Eighty percent of the team's points were scored by underclassmen. Once again Fitzgerald's strong points were the field events and the distance runs.

Frosh Set Individual Track Records

Statistics can often be deceiving. This couldn't have been more true than of the 1971-72 freshman track team. Although plagued by a lack of depth, the frosh turned in many fine performances despite the disappointing season's record of four wins and five losses.

Co-captains Jim Papalexis and George Yearego led the thinclads through a spirited season. Class records were set in almost every event: Steve Krasicky ran the 60-yd high hurdle at 13.0; Jim Ledbetter, Bob Viris, George Yearego, and Jerry Pichinski took the 440 relay at 48.9; Jim Papalexis, Don Brietzke, Steve Binkowski and Terry Rowland clocked in the mile relay at 3.54. The team also produced four Conference Champs: Jerry Pichinski was undefeated in the 220, as were George Yearego in the pole vault, Jim Papalexis in the half mile, and Rick Caponi in the high jump.

For the first time in Fitzgerald sports history, the frosh team took a first in the South Warren Ninth Grade Invitational. The surprising comeback from a losing season was attributed to the quality and dependability of the team's conference champs.

Tennis Team Bounces to Finest Season

Improvements come every year with a sports team, and the 1972 varsity tennis team was no exception. Recovering from the previous losing season can be attributed in part to the tennis programs offered during the summer and fall. Dedication drove these players to long hours of strenuous practice for the good of the team. The addition of tennis courts at Chatterton Junior High School contributed to the winning ways of the team. Through these efforts, the Spartans came up with their best season ever with an over-all record of ten wins and six losses.

The most-valuable player award went to Joe Kosnik for his play in the number-one singles position, and in the Warren Conference Tournament where he was runner-up in the doubles match with Richard Kosnik. Joe was also selected for the Warren all-conference tennis team for the third consecutive year.

Although the '72 Spartan nine was far from superior, its 7-8 record was misleading. Coach Chris Vlahakis' team finished second and might have easily had a far better record.

Five one-run defeats were the disappointing side of the Spartan season. Having downed a strong Cousino team, 9-2, the Spartans failed to connect in the rematch, 1-0. Although conference champion Warren Woods soundly beat the Spartans 8-1, Fitzgerald triumphed in a squeaker 1-0.

Last year, Vlahakis predicted with the return of five veterans, the team's record would show improvement over the '71 season. Although the Spartans failed to do so, returning seniors did make the team click. All-conference player Jan Kenyon hit .326 while Dan Markanty hit .328. Bob Johnson and Captain Dan Moore had fine seasons earning honorable mention all-conference status. While Dave Dancy and Dan Moore pulled zip to the Spartan attack, sophomore Joe Stevens took the team batting crown with a .333 mark.

SPEED TO BURN. Fleet-footed Tom Funke steals another base. Speed on the bases was one of Fitzgerald's strongest points.

SUICIDE SQUEEZE: John Trentacosta strains attempting to squeeze in a teammate from third base. Advancing the runner was one of the strategies emphasized in the season.

UNWINDING FROM THE PITCH? Taking it no and easy, Bob Lewis contemplates a strike. Confidence and skill add to a pitcher's form

Fitzgerald's reserve baseball team ended its last season on a dismal note

The team started the year off on the wrong foot and never seemed to recover, finishing with a moderate 3-win 9-lost record

However, sophomore Tom Kosnik was one bright spot of the season, hitting a healthy 280 and being elected the team's most valuable player.

Although the reserves record denotes lack of team coordination, lack of knowledge in basic strategy was a major factor in the performance of the team

Unfortunately, though, reserve baseball has been cancelled for the 1973 season

Fitzgerald's varsity softball team wound up the '72 season with an impressive 11-1 won-lost record. Each game showed the Spartanettes in line form except for their one loss to Clawson. Co-captains Janet Bosquette and junior Bunny Smith lead the girls through their victories. Senior Janet also was voted the most valuable player.

The Spartanettes averaged less than four errors a game, and sported an overall batting average of .553. Barb Stevens, the most valuable pitcher, won 10 games against 0 defeats. Homerun hitters Bunny Smith, Barb Stevens, and Jodee Barber slugged two round trippers each.

With eighteen returning veterans, Coach Bev Rogers anticipates a strong team for the upcoming '73 season.

Spirit Soars at Homecoming Activities

Fitzgerald's homecoming festivities went on with a minimum of trouble and a maximum of enjoyment for both students and faculty.

The three-day schedule kicked off Thursday evening with Spartan Night. This year's list of Spartan Night activities included a baby buggy contest, which ended as a free-for-all with pies flying through the air.

Then came the long-awaited Friday night football game. The floats, which had been patiently worked on and worried over for over a month, were masterpieces of hard work and ingenuity.

Despite the Spartan's failure to score in the first half, the crowd's spirits refused to be dampened, and by halftime the stands were alive with cheering students. The homecoming princesses were escorted regally across the field, and as everyone waited breathlessly, Sue Legree was announced as Fitzgerald Homecoming Queen of 1972. Then the junior float was named the winner of the float pageant, with seniors taking second place.

To wind up the weekend's festivities, the Good Humor band provided excellent music to dance and celebrate to at the Saturday night homecoming dance over which the homecoming court presided. In all, the festivities provided a much-needed lift in the spirit of the students.

HAPPY AS EVER Sue Legree, with escort Jerry McCann, hears the announcement that she has been named homecoming queen.

Breakfast Cereals Arouse Appetite

The 1972 float pageant presented spectators with creative interpretations of breakfast idols. Each class entered its own idea of the theme Wonderful World of Breakfast Cereals.

Floats of all colors, shapes and sizes proudly paraded around the football field before the start of the game, causing a lot of cheering and good wishes from the spectators. The floats in themselves were masterpieces of hard work and ingenuity. Toucans, Pooh-bears, Crunch birds, and even Quisp sat perched on various mountings, making obvious the theme of cereal box characters.

The juniors' many hours of hard work proved worthwhile as their own Sam Toucan finished a fine first place. Excited juniors surrounded their beautiful bird as it took the traditional parade around the track to claim victory.

The seniors' entry of the famous Pooh Bear, dressed in the bright colors of red and gold, came in a close but disappointing second. The sophomores had third place. Their Crunchberry Bird and Crunchberry Tree made a fine showing. Finally, freshmen Quisp and his flying saucer put up a good fight for the victory. All the floats in the pageant should remain a source of pride to their classes.

COME FLY WITH ME! Quisp, the freshman hopeful, seemingly beckons to the crowd, inviting them on a flight to the outer limits.

Enchanted Couples Pair Off, Find Romance

May 26, 1972 was the hottest day of the year for some Fitzgerald students. It was an unusual phenomenon indeed that only struck the Carousel, the site of the 1972 Junior-Senior Prom.

Who was responsible for this freak of nature? The junior class did it again. Despite the temperature, they successfully brought a touch of the tropics — specifically Hawaii — to the Carousel. With a little imagination, some ambition, and a lot of crepe paper, the juniors worked hard to bring the magic of Hawaii to Fitzgerald couples. They planted green paper palm trees and erected miniature Hawaiian huts in the center of every table. At the door they arranged to have Hawaiian hostesses (cleverly disguised juniors) distribute colorful Hawaiian leis to every girl as a memento of her trip to Hawaii.

Everything was perfect. The magic was there, but one look at the faces of the couples that night and one could see that they had a magic all their own. Formal evening gowns and tuxedos had transformed the typical high school students into young sophisticates who later completed their evening of dancing at some of the most exclusive night spots in the area.

AIHH, DO WE HAVE TO LEAVE? As Ann Kohut and her escort discover, just when the evening seems young it's time to leave.

GOING TO THE PROM TO GET A DATE

As it past years, Friday night dances offered students a way to unwind from their school day. With music blaring, they found it easy to let troubles slip away, and unwind with the music.

Although the dances started out on a bad note at the beginning of the school year, most problems were soon ironed out, and the dances ran much smoother.

Various clubs and organizations held the dances, each adding its own special touches. Music and decorations varied with each dance. As usual, the traditional Dogpatch, Mardi Gras, Sadie Hawkins, and respective class dances were held. The majority of students attending the dances enjoyed them.

Drama Production 'Music Man' Proves

It is said that in the spring a young man's fancy turns to love. In the spring of 1972, even Fitzgerald's drama department became subservient to the powers and perils of love. For their spring production, they enacted the romantic antics of Marian the Librarian and Harold Hill as Meredith Wilson's "The Music Man" came to life on Fitzgerald's stage.

Demonstrating the versatility of Fitzgerald talent, the young thespians presented the musical comedy in all of its delightfulness. In the tradition of Fitzgerald productions, the performance was a triumph in dramatic and musical accomplishments. Under the co-direction of Mr. Muchmore and Mr. Barr, Roxanne Cronovich and Richard French, supported by a large cast, succeeded in developing realistic portrayals of Wilson's characters.

Vaudeville Brings Variety to Fitzgerald

AND NOW Mr. Z, Alan Zielinski, adds the finishing touches to a magic trick while Andrea Lerma tries to catch the audience's attention

Theatre '72-73's fall production was a refreshing change from the usual. Instead of choosing the traditional play, the dramatics classes pooled their ideas and came up with a new fall theme: Vaudeville '72! The idea was to capture the atmosphere of the old time shows of the early twentieth century.

Variety was the key to the evening's entertainment. The audience sat in awe during the fire-breathing act of Bual Williamson, while skittish Bob Tye and Michael Rzendzian provided a lighter note during their comedy acts. Serious singing performances by Cheryl Pettv and Jim Oliver, and the singing and dancing of Lily Fiordellisi brought additional balance to Vaudeville. The diversity and originality of the acts was one of the reasons for the show's success.

The grand finale also was presented in mind-boggling detail and variety. The entire cast, from the flagpole sitter to Simon and his Wonder Dog Sam, paraded out on stage and led the unbelieving audience in a chorus of "There's No Business Like Show Business." And while balloons cascaded from the ceiling, who should appear but "Colonel Sanders," handing out chicken to the tune of "Dixie."

Dramatic, musical, and even technical skills were ably demonstrated in this one show.

Students Gain Experience From Jobs

TIME TO CHECK OUT. Making sure he has everything he came for, Duane Posavetz stops to talk before checking out at Sylvia Gajewski's register.

Along with the many pressures of school work and extra-curricular activities, students still find time to hold after-school jobs. It takes real diligence on the part of these students to keep up their grades and manage a part-time job at the same time.

The high school Placement Office has often helped the student to find employment suitable to his own skills and abilities, but more often the young job-seekers have sought their own line of work.

The Fitzgerald co-op program, available only to seniors, offers the advantage of gaining work experience in occupational fields of the student's choice on school time. This program contributes greatly to the working population at Fitzgerald. Co-ops working outside the school often maintain these positions even after graduating. Students working for the school on the co-op program, however, yield their jobs at the close of each school year to make way for future participants in the co-op program.

Students Enrich Lives After School

After school life had many outlets for student enthusiasm. Students displayed their acting talent in Vaudeville, The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie, and numerous Greenroom productions.

The students involved themselves in the more political aspects of the community also. The POW MIA rally held in the auditorium was jammed with concerned students as was the abortion debate. Students also played a key role in the recent elections as they distributed campaign information.

Warren Recreational sports sparked much participation among the more athletically inclined.

Although these activities involved much student time, the benefits of accomplishment were well worth the effort. The experiences from after school life taught responsibility to the students involved.

Upper Classmen Examine Frosh

The freshman is often considered the fool's fool because he is often caught doing things that are usually considered harmless but completely ludicrous. The freshmen dance, car wash, or anything else is frequently relegated to second place. Because of their lack of experience, the frosh are usually considered easy prey. Every class that graduates from Fitzgerald was at one time, a freshman class struggling for recognition. This year's freshman class was no exception. They were struggling and through the proven trial-and-error method were making headway. Hard Work Fires
Sophomore Spirit

With their freshman year gone by faster than expected, the Sophomores looked toward 1973 with increased enthusiasm and interest. The class of '75 started their Sophomore year with stiff competition in the homecoming float pageant. Their entry, the Crunchberry Beast, took third place after putting up a good fight. The lucky girl chosen as Sophomore princess was Jean Karbousky. Her escort was Jim Ledbetter.

Before the excitement of homecoming had time to subside, the hard-working, super-selling Sophomores sold over $7,000 in magazine subscriptions in the magazine sale. The individual salesmen eagerly competed to accumulate points that were totaled toward posters, patches, and prizes awarded to the top salesmen of each day of the sale. This years top salesman was Nancy Rao

Also, on January 25, the Sophomore class held a dance to bring a much needed boost to the class treasury. The dance was held to relieve the tension of final exams during the semester break. Everyone seemed to be enjoying themselves dancing to the music of the Sly Dog.

Enthusiastic is the term that could easily describe the junior class of 1973. Their great amount of class enthusiasm, spirit, and unity aided the juniors in succeeding at their many endeavors. The juniors' achievements were obvious at the various activities throughout the year.

The junior class began the school year with a major victory: winning the homecoming-float pageant. Their colorful Toucan bird captured the votes of the judges and was awarded the first place trophy in the traditional homecoming competition. The junior choice for homecoming princess, Cindy Filipovich, who was escorted by Dan Rinner, added a touch of beauty to the junior conquest.

The class spirit continued after homecoming and throughout the year as they ordered their senior rings. The juniors were offered a new style of rings and eagerly adapted to the change. Planning for the prom also took many hours for the ambitious juniors who undertook the responsibility of this event. This year's zealous juniors definitely have shown the promise of having a very successful senior class.

The 60's

SENIORS

Only the beginning—
only the beginning—

Seniors Suffer Bout With Apathy

Enthusiastic, unified, and spirited, the class of '73 arrived at Fitzgerald in 1969. In their sophomore year the present seniors added a list of well achieved accomplishments. Starting the year was the unforgettable Dumbo entry in the float pageant followed by the successful magazine sale; however, this would be the last time the class would surpass all previous records, for at the beginning of their junior year their spirit had begun to wane.

As juniors, they participated in fewer and fewer class functions. Apathy had spread throughout the class.

As seniors, the class of '73 resurged with a final effort to set the pace at Fitzgerald. Participating in class activities, they began to rise, and once again one could detect a sense of pride in being a member of the class of '73.

The seniors, well endowed with funds, increased their treasury with their annual dance and a successful candy sale. For variety, the senior had a choice of trips to either Spain or the Bahamas, and over 100 students flew to warmer climates. The year began and finished on positive notes, because the class of '73 wouldn't have had it any other way.

Seniors Mourn Loss of Classmates

"Whom the gods love dies young"

Denise Toepfer (1955-1972)

Alan Szydłowski (1955-1971)

Thursday, November 30, 1972 senior Denise Toepfer died in a mid-afternoon auto accident. Moving south on Ryan, just past Nine Mile, Denise was involved in a fatal multicar collision. The suddenness of Denise's death added to the tragedy of it all.

Born in Detroit on September 22, 1955, Denise attended grade school at Schofield Elementary. In 1969 Denise entered Fitzgerald as a freshman. Denise was a talented, conscientious student who had an aptitude for commercial art and photography. Her work showed much promise for the future.

Denise was a social person - ever-willing to lend a helping hand to anyone that needed it. Denise was loved by all who knew her. She was a most generous person who opened up her heart to all. Nothing can compensate for the gap her death left in the senior class.

The summer of 1971 brought about the untimely death of Alan Szydłowski. In September of that year Alan would have been a junior.

Born on November 16, 1955, Alan was native to the Fitzgerald School District. He attended Mound Park Elementary before entering Fitzgerald. Alan was president of his class in both his freshman and sophomore years. An accomplished athlete, Alan earned a varsity letter for his swimming abilities. Alan was an imaginative person with much artistic potential.

His outgoing personality and friendly disposition influenced not only those around him but the whole class of '73. Alan will always be remembered with a smile on his face for he was never seen without it.

No swimmer, male or female, can match the tenure of senior Della McCormick. Della began her competitive career at age 5, before she could even touch the bottom. She began winning awards ten years ago while swimming as an eight-and-under in the Trenton and Fitzgerald A.A.U. meets. In 1964, at the age of nine, she swam her first mile in competition and earned a patch of recognition.

Shortly after this, she became ill and suffered a setback for several years. By the age of 14 she was beginning her comeback, earning scattered awards. Then, at the age of 15, Della won the BAY-O-RAMA, a three mile contest. In 1972 she won the 15-17 swimmer of the year award presented by the Fitzgerald swim club. In 1973 she won the open division swimmer of the year award. Della co-captained Fitzgerald's first girl's varsity team and was the first Fitzgerald girl to qualify for state competition. Della has been one of the all time best supporters of Fitzgerald swimming. She has probably attended more varsity meets at Fitzgerald than any other coach, parent, boy, or girl in the district. The Fitzgerald swim club salutes Della McCormick.

Congratulations Girl Graduates. We have a free gift for you.

It's a lovely Lane Keepsake Chest ... and it's for freebies! Now you can stash away such items as senior prom invitations, snapshots of the guy in your life, flowers from your prom corsage, ticket stubs from last summer's rock festival. It all can be locked up in your Keepsake Chest for safekeeping.

Who knows? These little treasures could be the start of something really big.

To get your free Keepsake Chest, bring in your senior class identification.

And if you should survive to 105,
Look at all you derive from being alive.
And here is the best part, You have a head start,
If you are among the very young at heart.

Gladys,

Well, its been a cheer pleasure knowing you. Earth science was fun & im going to miss it! I wish you all the happiness & success ever, and lots of good fortune.

God Bless you always,
Love -

Marie

Handwritten notes in the top right corner, including "Mr. Boss" and various scribbles.

Gladys,
you have one of the craziest gangs of the world. Glad to be one of your friends. A.M.A.
Denise

Gladys,
your cool and always yell at me. But I don't care.
just say hi to me
after school. Stay sweet and you'll always be cool, can have the greatest together. I must say we discussed I friend a Karen advise with you gave our problems remember you Linda. Remember all when the stuff we did it driving up in gym together a couple years ago with some remember all the Tiger years we went to class all all time came when you remember to class all great these years we went to class all Well its been Gladys
